Anderson
School of Management

Message from the Dean

ANTONIO BERNARDO
Dean and John E. Anderson Chair in Management

Think in the next.

At UCLA Anderson, we're not content with how things are; instead, we look to the future to discover and chart what will be.

We are a community defined by three core qualities:

We share success

Performance and innovation are not about winning at the expense of others. Success comes from creating the new direction of business, together.

We think fearlessly

Our faculty and students provoke new thinking and experimentation with bold ideas.

We drive change

We're impatient unless we can measure our efforts against meaningful results.

From our home in Los Angeles, the global gateway and innovation capital of the world, we celebrate these qualities and build what's next, together.
