SHAPE YOUR OWN EXPERIENCE

Chicago Booth offers a unique opportunity to tailor your learning experience. We have the most flexible curriculum, so you can design a program that meets your specific goals and interests. Choose from a wide variety of courses, levels, and areas of study.

LEAD (1 required course): Take an introspective approach to management skills, wielding influence, negotiation, team building, self awareness, and communication style (our only required and cohorted course).

Foundation Courses (choose 3 courses): Focus on developing analytical tools through accounting, micro-economics, and statistics.

Functions, Leadership & Management, and Business Environment (choose 7 courses): Cover core business functions of finance, marketing, and operations while studying the fundamentals of decisions, people, and strategy; and understand the backdrop in which firms operate.

Electives (choose 10 courses): Pursue any area of study, including up to six classes from other University of Chicago departments.

Concentrations: Chicago Booth has 13 concentrations that span a wide range of interests to further focus your studies. Students generally graduate with three to four concentrations, ranging from accounting and finance to marketing and entrepreneurship.

Joint Degree: Go beyond the MBA and develop specialized credentials with a joint degree in law, medicine, public policy, computer sciences, or social services administration.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE

International programs at Chicago Booth will prepare you to succeed in an increasingly global environment. We offer many opportunities to gain global exposure through lab coursework, industry treks, joint degrees, study abroad in countries around the world, and an international business concentration.

COMMUNITY AND CULTURE

At Chicago Booth, you'll join a collaborative community of people who support one another and become friends for life. Our culture is to have a responsibility to those around you—to reach out and lift each other up. There are substantial formal resources in place to help you with everything from course selection and recruiting to health and wellness. But what really stands out are the informal actions of our students, alumni, faculty, mentors, and staff. We credit our pay-it-forward mentality with the support you'll experience every day. Whether it's lending a hand in class, helping with interview prep, or offering advice on your business model, the Booth community champions your professional and personal success.
